Overview

“Our firm has deep collective knowledge of brands and soft IP, and we excel at working together. Sometimes we can answer complex questions effectively without significant time spent on research or discussions with foreign counsel. If you have a complex issue involving your brand, it’s worth asking us if we’ve seen it before.”

Ashford Tucker works with brand owners, businesses, and entertainers to achieve strategic goals relating to their intellectual property. Ashford advises clients on global trademark portfolios and licensing issues, including trademark clearance, registration, policing, enforcement, and opposition matters. He also counsels clients on copyright registration and enforcement, and drafts copyright and trademark agreements such as licenses, assignments, and coexistence agreements.

Ashford has significant experience advising clients involved in multijurisdictional disputes, and he performs due diligence on intellectual property-related aspects of corporate transactions. He works with clients in diverse industries, including tech, software, freight transportation, hospitality, music, entertainment, media, broadcasting, retail, consumer goods, luxury goods, personal care products, pharmaceuticals, and advertising.
