Overview

"I draw upon my experience as a litigator to develop creative yet practical strategies to help clients protect their intellectual property around the world. The constantly evolving IP landscape presents novel issues on a regular basis, and it is a privilege to work with such a talented and dedicated group of attorneys to address those issues on behalf of our clients."

Cole Mathews advises clients on worldwide intellectual property protection and branding strategies, including trademark clearance, prosecution, and enforcement, as well as copyright and domain names. Cole manages global trademark and copyright portfolios, and frequently drafts license, coexistence, consent, and other agreements.

Prior to joining Fross Zelnick, Cole was a litigation associate at a major international law firm.
